

Origamido, Inc. makes the licensing of our designs simple and affordable for talented folders to make money by folding items for sale!

In the music industry, performers far outnumber the composers, enabling many others to make a living. Residuals or royalties from commercial use, such as performances and publishing, support the essential work of the composers. Designers and artists also produce value for which they deserve compensation.

We (Michael G. LaFosse and Richard L. Alexander of Origamido, Inc.) have designed and published hundreds of original origami models, and as professional artists, designers, and authors, we find ourselves increasingly faced with requests by others to use our original origami designs for commercial use, specifically to fold and sell. This agreement is simple and specific. It will allow you to:

- Fold items for sale (including to benefit not-for-profit organizations). No other grant-of-rights is transferred or implied.
- Teach our designs commercially (instruction in person for compensation).

Because our published instructions include pertinent copyright statements, we also require that any potential licensee own and use a legitimate edition of the appropriate source publication. This agreement must be signed and payment made before you proceed to use our designs for commercial purposes.

License Fee and Payment Schedules: Remit an initial payment of $50.00 US payable by PayPal to: info@origamido.com or send a check to: Origamido, Inc., 170 Margin Street, Haverhill, MA 01832-5189 USA

This fee covers a 5% design royalty fee for the first $1,000 US gross sales. (You must keep track of your own sales, which will be subject to our auditor.) Initial royalty of $50 US Paid on _____ by Paypal _____ Check _____

Before your gross sales exceed $1,000US, please remit another royalty payment of $50.00US.

You also agree to provide proper attribution to the designer, and to the source of our instructions:

- The name of the model, and the designer's name, printed on a caption card, label, or tag. (e.g. "North American Cardinal, designed by Michael G. LaFosse")
- The name of the folder (e.g. "folded by Joan Q. Public")
- The year (e.g. "folded 2020")
- Materials description (e.g. "Handmade Origamido® Abaca paper", or "90 lb. cotton watercolor paper")
- Reference source for the instruction (e.g. "from "Advanced Origami, Tuttle Publishing")

I agree to the terms of this agreement. Licensee: Please Print
